

What our clients say

"We knew we had to invest in computers to cover us for the next three or four years, but we weren't exactly sure what the latest ideas were. MCS took us further than other companies and gave us the confidence to make the right decision."

Architect's Practice, Belfast

"We were pretty apprehensive about spending money on new accounting systems, because our previous experiences were not great. But MCS were brilliant – they did what they said they would do."

Engineering firm, Co. Londonderry

"We were at our wits end with our last system crashing all the time. MCS said they could stop that and frankly I didn't believe them. I'm glad to say they proved me wrong, and now I've got systems that are a million times better"

Retail and distribution business,
Co. Armagh

"We have found that the MCS team has really strong individuals, who know their stuff and that we can get along with."

bringing you and technology together

We are a team of individuals with the vision and the technical expertise to use the power of technology to enhance your profitability.

We want to apply technology to your business to deliver greater efficiency, empower and motivate your staff, make your information accessible, create more time for your key people to focus on their priorities, and support you at all times.

We judge our success by the growth and prosperity of our clients, and we measure our contribution to your business by the effects that the technology we introduce has on your performance.

Payback on investment

Most modern businesses are aware that the correct use of computers can have a positive impact on commercial performance and efficiency. However, many feel that they cannot achieve these benefits because they don't understand how to maximise IT in their businesses, are intimidated by technology, have had previous bad experiences or simply have no affinity for the whole area of computers.

MCS recognise this and so we invest time with our clients to earn your trust and help you on all levels. We look at the "big picture", are visionary about your business objectives, listen to your needs, analyse your problems and bring sound technical know-how and reliable back up to give you robust, effective solutions which bring tangible payback on your investment.

Our expertise covers

- Problem solving
- Full ICT systems design
